Derek

It was great to meet you in Baltimore and a pleasure to hear you speak. Your talk actually was quite inspirational, and many of the points you made really hit home with our organization. I think everyone here is getting sick of me quoting you! (especially the part about the CEO's getting out of the way of the people under them who know how to get things done)

One part I enjoyed was the segment about Andretti telling you how to hit 200+ at Indy. I don't know if your talk was video taped, but if it was I'd love to discuss how we might clip that segment for use on our website, where we have a video section. I think it was interesting as a race fan, but I also think for non race fans it was a great insight into the art of the sport.

Best Wishes

Lonnie
